About:

The primary mission of Counseling Services is to assist students with problems and concerns that interfere with normal academic development and persistence toward degree. Through developmental, remedial and preventive programming, students are aided in addressing personal, social, academic and career-related concerns. A comprehensive testing program that helps students with personal, educational and professional planning is maintained.

Also central to the mission of Counseling Services is the training of doctoral interns and advanced graduate students in Psychology. The unit offers supervised training experiences, with an emphasis upon clinical service informed by practice, theory and research.
